

Validation

In search for calm in clamor
To master the will that finds order in chaos Deluded by the fantasy of what I wanted to only leave behind what I needed I now wander in void seeking for the important of all - "Purpose"

In search for fame, I found serenity
In search for peace, I learnt to adjust
In search for knowledge, I found wisdom While I searched for purpose, all I could find was debilitating questions

I asked why everytime I was overlooked
I asked why everytime I was belittled
I asked why everytime I was left out
I wish I had asked them loud
I wish I had the courage to face what I feared

And yet somehow I learnt to live with it
And yet I concealed my scars

In the darkest of paths
I now live with these unsettling questions
Even as I'm doomed to follow my faith
All I ask for is a little validation.